Terms & conditions.

Loan exit, servicing and affordability

The borrower must be able to demonstrate a realistic exit strategy

If the property is being purchased at the time of loan origination, the borrower's liquidity position is important to the underwriting decision. Proof of funds or other sources of liquidity (asset sales, personal income, etc) are needed to determine the borrower's ability to cover deposit and completion costs.

Interest will normally be compounded for loan servicing for the term of the facility.

For loans where ongoing interest is serviced by the borrower, liquidity is required to support at least 3 months of interest payments.
